What I Saw Underground.

MAMMOTH CAVE, July 10, 1872.

After a ride of ten miles from Cave City, (the railroad station for Mammoth cave,) thro' a wild and mountainous country, our party alighted at the hotel which was to be our headquarters during our sojourn at the cave. An hour was spent in preparing for the grand entree of twenty-five ladies and gentlemen, and such a looking set, resembling more a band of gypsies than representatives of a civilized community, our rari-colored costumes affording quite a fund of amusement and jokes. At 9 a. m. we took up our line of march, lanterns in hand, prepared to explore the subterranean wonder. The entrance is but 300 yards from the hotel. As we enter the mouth of the cave, what a change from the thermometer at 80 to one of 59° Fahrenheit (the temperature here the year round,) but in a few moments we became accustomed to the sudden transition; oh, it was so nice, such a clear, bracing atmosphere. Here let me say that we have started on the "grand route," which is nine miles in length; consequently, with a walk of eighteen miles before us, we are obliged to move on. The first wonder that met our astonished gaze was the "great rotunda," seventy-five feet below the dining room of the hotel. The space here is large enough to entertain all of our jubilee friends from Boston at one sitting. We next come to the "Methodist church," so called from the fact that several meetings have been held here by that denomination of the Christian Church. We are now passing several large vats that were used here during the war of 1812 for the manufacture of "saltpeter," wheel tracks and footprints being plainly visible. Here our intelligent colored guide indulged in a little joke. He showed us some corn cobs in the sand that are said to have been here for sixty years, and in a perfect state of preservation. Some of the party began to appropriate specimens, when William requested them to leave a few or he would have to bring in some more. Our next view was the "gothic gallery." The colored light thrown upon the ledge of rocks above us produced a beautiful effect, and revealed to us on the ceiling above the representation of a "phat girl;" but hark! in the distance strains of delicious music burst on our ears. We hurry on until we reach the "ball room," where we found five African citizens fiddling for dear life, and fifty cents apiece. "Music hath charms," etc., and the temptation being very strong, we indulged in just one old-fashioned quadrille, which presented quite a novel sight three hundred feet below the surface, and our lanterns dimly burning.

Here is the "grand arch," and next a huge rock 40 feet long, called the "giant's coffin," containing the remains of the grandfather of the Cardiff Giant; on the ceiling above is an incrustation resembling an "ant eater;" passing around the coffin, we enter the "deserted chamber," and pass on to "wooden bowl cave." Here was found a wooden bowl supposed to have been left by the Indians in 1815. We are passing so many places of interest, that, for want of time and space, I will mention only the principal ones. Here we see the "bottomless pit," 125 feet deep, and now we are in the "valley of humanity." Passing on, we find the "Scotchman's trap." If this immense rock should fall, we should be confined in this dungeon forever, as this seems to be the key to this part of the cave. Next comes "Buchanan's way," so called from the fact that James did not have to turn his head; we did. Here is "Grecian bend alley," and if you will look ahead, you will see the whole party have got it quite bad. No need of newspapers just now. We are now passing through "phat man's misery," the worst place in the whole cave for navigation. It is about twelve inches wide, and if a "six footer" should stand upright he would be about four feet in the solid rock. We are once more happy, as we have reached "great relief," and such a relief where we can again stand upright and seem like human beings. We soon arrive at "bacon chamber," resembling a thousand and one hams and shoulders, hanging up. Ham and eggs would be quite a treat just now, as we are quite willing to take a little nourishment, but the "eye water" has "gin out," so we will have to feast on excitement for a while. We are now traversing a rocky and dangerous road. "Careful on the left," says our faithful guide. Here is a dark abyss called the "dead sea;" we can not penetrate its gloom; throwing a rock we listen, and hear the splash of water hundreds of feet below. On an eminence far ahead of us, is our inimitable band, playing and singing "Jordan am a hard road to trabbel." After passing through the "grand walk," we come to "lake Lethe," a small body of water. We cross in a skiff. A short walk brings us to "Echo lake," the gem of the "long route." It is 3-4 mile long, and about 200 feet wide. Swimming in its placid waters are myriads of eyeless fish (the only ones I saw, however, were at the hotel, in bottles, selling at a dollar each). Our band has preceded us, and are discoursing some beautiful music on the opposite shore. This is about as near fairy land as one ever gets in this country. A halloo on the lake, as we are crossing, is reverberated from shore to shore, and methinks a thousand tongues are shouting at once. The echo lasted 15 seconds.—Now our party are all safely across and the band is dismissed, the balance of the journey being supplied with "music in the air." After passing "Cascade Hall" and "Valley of Roses," we come to "Ole Bull Concert Hall." In passing here, "Mistur B." gave a concert. We will get around this "hanging rock" as quietly as possible, for it may fall, and then, well look out for your Dolly Varden's now look over your head and you will see "fly ceiling," crystalline formations looking exactly like a cloud of flies. One of the ladies wanted to know how they got in here. I gave it up. Here we are at "Washington hall."—This is a fine view, particularly just now. An elegant lunch is spread out before us, the contribution of our thoughtful and generous landlord; our eyes feasted but for a moment, and the "charge of the light brigade" was made in grand style. Sandwiches, chickens, canary birds, quails on the wing, &c., disappeared with lightning rapidity. A half hour was spent here very acceptably, and we are off for the "rocky mountains," which we reached shortly; after considerable puffing and blowing we were on its summit. Immediately beyond is "dismal hollow," and it looked dismal enough I can assure you. Our next and last stopping place was the maelstrom resembling an immense well, 125 feet deep.—After a short rest the party began to retrace their steps, and after a long and tedious journey of nine miles we reach the hotel at 9 P. M., having lived in the cave just twelve hours.—After discussing a splendid supper we indulged in dancing until 12 o'clock, when the festivities of the day were brought to a close.

The next morning we were all "armed and equipped" for a journey through the short route, which occupied but four hours. There were a great many elegant views on this route of which I will mention but three. "Gothic chapel," containing many stalactites reaching down from the ceiling above; there are five or six of them that form the "altar." In this altar three couples have been married. The first lady married said "she would not marry a man on the face of the earth," consequently consummated that delightful ceremony here. The next two doubtless intended to run matrimony in the ground.

"Gorin's dome" is one of the finest views in the cave. It must be about 300 feet high, and is lighted by colored lights at the dome. We view it from a small aperture in the rock about half way up from the bottom. The dripping of the water has formed some beautiful and curious designs in the rocky walls. Our last view on this route is the "star chamber." This scene alone would furnish capital enough for a long letter. I think it is the finest thing in the whole cave, but it is difficult to discriminate when there are so many really grand revelations of the works of nature. The size of the chamber is immense, walled up on either side by cloud-appearing rocks, with space above resembling a perfect sky, dotted all over with brilliant stars. On the right is what appears to be a veritable comet. The stars are formed by crystal formation on the dark ceiling, 150 feet above where we stand. Our guide puts all the lights out but three, and goes behind a ledge of rock. Looking to the left, a dark cloud seems to be coming up.—Very soon, the whole firmament is covered by this apparent thunder cloud. It is caused by the guide passing his hand over the lights; we are now left in total darkness, the scene is awfully grand, and how truly one feels his own insignificance and dependence when brought in contact with such masterpieces of the Almighty. This scene is one never to be forgotten. Soon there appears a mellow gray light in the East, the sun is rising, apparently slowly it creeps up the jagged rocks higher and still higher, until the charm is broken by the guide appearing lamp in hand. 'Twas these that produced this perfect copy of nature.—There is an inspiration that permeates one's whole existence while standing here, that can not be retained when out of sight of this lovely picture.

Nothing more to be seen and wondered at, we retraced our steps and arrived at the hotel just in time for dinner. Mr. D. L. Graves, the proprietor of the Mammoth Cave Hotel, is a gentleman of culture and refinement, understands his business, and makes everybody happy. Mr. Graves displayed good judgment in selecting such an affable and agreeable clerk as Mr. A. D. Babbitt. "Long may he wave." If any of your readers ever want to visit the cave, the Louisville and Nashville railroad stop at Cave City, 1½ hours' ride from the cave. Come one, come all, and see the greatest natural curiosity in America.

Old Mammoth cave! Old Mammoth cave!
How beautiful, how grand
Its avenues and palaces,
Formed by a Master's hand. J. L. O.

Smith and Jones.

One winter there came to Trenton, New Jersey, two men named Smith and Jones, both of whom had designs upon the Legislature. Jones had a bad wife, and was in love with another pretty woman, who, by-the-by, was a widow, with sparkling black eyes. Smith had a good wife, plump as a robin, good as an angel, and the mother of ten children. Smith did not want to get divorced, but sought to get a charter for a turnpike from Pig's Run to Terrapin Hollow. So, with these different objects, they came to Trenton, and addressed the assembled wisdom there with the usual arguments:

1. Oyster suppers, with a rich background of steak and venison.

2. Liquors in abundance, from the stunning "Jersey lightning" to the bubbling champagne.

To speak in plain prose, Jones gave a champagne supper, and Smith followed with a champagne breakfast.

Under the mollifying influence of these tempting repasts, the wise law-makers passed both the divorce and turnpike bills, and Jones and Smith—with a copy of each bill in parchment in their pockets—went rejoicing to their homes.

"My love," said Smith when he was once more comfortably ensconsed before his own domestic hearthstone, and speaking to his wife, who was ministering to the necessities of the youngest offspring, "I am one of the Directors of the Pig's Run and Terrapin Hollow Turnpike, and will be President, my dear. It will quite set us up in life. We will send our children to boarding-school, and live in style off the tolls. Here's the charter, ducky."

"Let me see it, pet," said the wife, who was the best of wives, with plumpness and good nature beaming all over her face. She nestled on Smith's shoulder, and threw her arm lovingly about his neck, as she helped him examine the parchment.

Suddenly Smith's visage grew long. His wife looked blank. Smith was not generally profane, but now he ripped out a fearful oath.

"Blast it, wife!" he shouted furiously, "those scoundrels at Trenton have divorced us!"

It was too true. The parchment he held was a bill of divorce, in which the names of Smith and his wife appeared in frightful big letters. Mrs. Smith wiped her eyes with the corner of her apron, as she exclaimed:

"Oh, dear, here's a turnpike! Mr. Smith, with the whole ten of our children staring me in the face, I ain't your wife."

Here the voice of the poor woman became choked with sobs, and her utterances were too indistinct to be recorded. As for Smith, he cursed away at such a rate as would have convinced any spectator of the propriety of sending him a missionary. Although the night was dark, and the denizens of the village had retired to their beds, Smith bid his wife put on her bonnet, and arm-in-arm they proceeded to the house of the clergyman of their church.

"Goodness, bless me!" exclaimed the mild, good man, as he saw them enter, Smith looking like the last June shad, and Smith's wife's face all streaked with tears, "what is the matter?"

"The matter is, I want you to marry us right off," replied Smith.

"Marry you!" exclaimed the astonished clergyman, with expanded fingers and wondering eyes; "are you drunk or crazy?"

"Neither. The fact is, Brother Goodwin, some scoundrels at Trenton have, unknown to us, divorced me from my wife, and she is the mother of all my children."

Well, the minister, seeing the condition of things, married them over again, and would not take any fee. The fact is, he was anxious to be alone, so that he could give vent to a suppressed laugh that was shaking him all over.

Smith and his wife went home and kissed every one of their ten children, and the little Smiths never knew that their father and mother had been made strangers to each other by legislative enactment.

Meanwhile, and on the self-same night, Jones returned to his native town, and sought the fine pair of black eyes which he hoped shortly to call his own. The pretty widow sat on a sofa, a white handkerchief tied carelessly about her round, white throat, and her black hair in silky waves against her rosy cheek.

"Divorce is the word!" cried Jones, playfully patting the double chin. "The fact is, Eliza, I am rid of that woman, and you and I will be married to-night. I know how to manage those fellows at Trenton. A champagne supper (or was it a breakfast?) did our business with them. Put on your bonnet and let us go to the preacher's at once, dearest."

The widow (who was among widows as peaches are among apples) put on her bonnet and took Jones' arm, and—

"Just look how handsome it is put on the parchment," cried Jones, pulling the document out before her, "here's the law which says that Jacob Jones and Ann Caroline Jones are two! Look at it!"

Putting her plump, gloved hand on his shoulder, she did look at it.

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed, with her rosebud lips, and sank back, half fainting, on the sofa.

"Oh, blazes!" cried Jones, rumpling the parchment in his hand; "here's lots of happiness gone to ruin."

It was a hard case. Instead of being divorced, and at liberty to marry the widow, Jacob Jones was simply, by the Legislature of New Jersey, incorporated into a Turnpike Company, with the liberty of constructing a turnpike from Burlington to Bristol. When you reflect that Burlington and Bristol are located about a mile apart, on opposite sides of the Delaware river, you will perceive the extreme hopelessnes of Jones' case.

"It is all the fault of that turnpike man who gave them the supper—or, was it the breakfast?" cried Jones in his agony. "If they had only chartered me to lay a turnpike from Pig's Run to Terrapin Hollow, I might have borne it, but the very idea of laying a turnpike across the Delaware river, from Burlington to Bristol, is an infernal absurdity."

So it was.

"And ain't you divorced?" said Eliza, a tear rolling down each cheek.

"No!" thundered Jones, crushing his hat between his knees; "and what is worse, the Legislature have adjourned and gone home drunk, and won't be back to Trenton until next year."

It was sad. The mistake had occurred on the last day of the session, when the Legislature and transcribing clerks were laboring under the effects of a champagne supper, followed by a champagne breakfast. Smith's name had been put where Jones' ought to have been, and "wisey-wersy," as the Latin poet hath it.

The New Postal Law.

The new law just passed makes some important changes in existing postal regulations. The most important is the authorization of one-cent postal cards for correspondence or printed circulars, similar to those which were introduced in Great Britain nearly two years ago, and are now in use in nearly all European countries. The house provided in the bill for cards with a paper flap to cover and conceal the writing. The senate changed this to an open card. In conference committee the style of the card was left to the discretion of the postmaster-general, who prefers the open cards, and will order that kind only to be manufactured. The face of the card will bear a one cent stamp, and will be provided with lines for the address, and the back will be ruled for the letter. The price of the card and stamp will be only one cent. It will probably be three or four weeks before they will be ready for sale, as the plates for printing have yet to be prepared.

The following are the new rates to be charged on third-class printed matter, viz.:

On all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, magazines, handbills, posters, unsealed circulars, prospectuses, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, corrected proof-sheets (passing between author and publisher), flexible patterns, sample-cards, phonographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes and wrappers, cards, plain and ornamental paper, photographic representation of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots and scions, a postage of one cent for each two ounces, or fraction thereof, on packages to one address, to be prepaid by postage-stamps affixed.

On all books (other than those printed by order of congress) postage at two cents for each two ounces, or fraction thereof, limited to four pounds in weight.

On samples of merchandise, metals, ores and mineralogical specimens, two cents for each two ounces, or fraction thereof, packages limited to twelve ounces in weight.

A. GOODRICH,
SEWING MACHINES & PIANOS.

Sewing Machines.
The hurly-burly of the Sewing-Machine war is ended. Various manufacturers have paraded their machines before the public, with a great flourish of trumpets and waving of banners. In their eagerness to effect sales, the different agents resorted to all sorts of trickery to trap the unwary, and hundreds of farmers' wives, and farmers themselves, in this county, had forced upon them worthless machines in an unguarded moment. You, who have not yet made up your minds which to buy of the many machines offered, we advise to carefully examine into the merits of the "Domestic." Independent of its many good qualities, (and we believe it to be the best in the world) it is in the hands of a gentleman here, well known to thousands of our readers, who would not knowingly make false representations.—We feel justified in saying that we believe A. Goodrich fully satisfied himself, before taking the agency of the "Domestic," that it was perfect in all its parts, and that he could unhesitatingly recommend it to all.

THE DAILY FREEMAN.

CITY OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT.)

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 19, 1872.

Now to Work.

It will be seen by the proceedings of the Liberal Republican Committee that it has fully organized, and has selected an admirable set of officers, gentlemen noted for their energy and activity in political and business matters. The advices from different parts of the county are encouraging in the highest degree, much more so than our best anticipations. Arrangements have been made for thorough work in every town in the county. Now let every Greeley Republican go to work. Leave the bluster and the brag to the other set, and do work that tells. Every Republican who speaks out for Greeley encourages some other to do the same. Application to the Executive Committee for documents will be promptly filled, and the headquarters, which will be located in a few days, will be open till the end of the campaign for the reception of friends of the cause.

The Political Contrast.

For several years the State of New York has been Democratic, but last fall when the corruption of some of their party leaders was exposed we appealed to the Democratic masses to help us hurl them from power and they answered with their votes in favor of Republican officers. By that act they proved they loved their country as well as those who opposed them. That is a fact which the most narrow-minded Republican will not dispute. Indeed we venture there is no sane or wise man among them who calls his Democratic neighbor a knave because they differ in politics. The Democratic soldier faced the pain of wounds and the jaws of death side by side with the Republican hero. They were patriots, though political opponents. They suffered and died brothers. So to-day, with American citizens. They dispute about the policy of the government, but their love for their country is equal, and both make equal sacrifices for its good. Those who deny this will disown their fathers and mothers, or desert their babes on the highway.

But what is the spectacle which the followers of Grant present?—When a Greeley Republican meets them, they taunt him by saying, "You join the Copperheads." In their eyes every man who is not a Republican, is a traitor to his country. In our opinion such men cannot be trusted with the conduct of affairs, for their moral perception is so circumscribed that party is above country. They believe no one is honest unless they agree with them. Mosby and Longstreet are good because they go for Grant. Those who suppo t Greeley arise above party and appeal to reason and the laws of economy. The one class cleave to the corrupt whether they be those in Ulster, the custom house, or Southern States, while the other unite to overthrow rings in this and sister States, and in the federal government. Which will the thinking citizen choose?

Reconstructed Tammany.

The great hue and cry of the Grantites is that Tammany has joined the forces of Greeley, and is working hard for him. Voters had therefore better ask themselves what Tammany is.

Up to last summer and fall Tammany was the most corrupt society on the face of the globe. It even rivalled the Cameron Ring of Harrisburgh. From city and state it plundered at will, and its leader, Bill Tweed, boasted that he owned legislatures. The people smashed Mr. Tweed and his colleagues, a large portion of the Democratic party assisting in the good work. Before Mr. Tweed took control of Tammany it was the strength of the city Democracy, but under the lead of Tilden, Seymour, Church, and Schell it was not corrupt. As Tweed's power in the institution increased, these men took inferior positions, and finally were driven out.

The tidal wave swept over the state and Tweed and his companions in corruption went down, never to rise again. Tammany was reconstructed, and the men who are now trying Tweed before the courts of the state have taken their places. Augustus Schell is Grand Sachem in place of Tweed; Charles O'Connor takes Connolly's place; Sweeney gives place to Tilden, Dowling to Seymour, Hall to Sanford E. Church, Sheriff Brennan to ex-sheriff Kelly, Bradley to Ottendorfer. Does anybody pretend that Schell, O'Connor, Tilden, Seymour, Church, Kelly and Ottendorfer are corrupt? They are Democrats, to be sure, but as the Democracy became corrupt their influence in its councils diminished, and as promptly as they had the power they drove the thieves from the organization. The Tammany of to-day is as different from the Tammany of 1870 as day from night.

That is the way the respectable part of the Democratic party has dealt with the corrupt men in its ranks. What has the administration party done with its Tom Murphy gang, its Cameron Ring, its Union Pacific Ring, or its military Ring? In the one case the men once all powerful are dethroned and crushed; in the other they are still in power, sustained by the patronage of the government.

Farmers and City Visitors.

A few days ago we had occasion to stop at a farmer's house to transact some business, and found his portico full of city visitors making themselves merry, while the housewife was in bed from indisposition and without a house servant. This has a moral which we have learned from many similar incidents.

Harvest time is peculiarly hard on farmers' wives. The gathering of the crops calls for many extra temporary laborers, whom the farmer must, of necessity, furnish with board and lodging. This adds heavily to the manifold duties of the wife and servants, and gives them enough to do without the additional burden of city visitors who scarcely make their own beds.

There is an old adage that "we are happiest when conscious of the joy of our friends." This could be laid to heart by those who visit farmers in harvest time. They could defer their summer vacation until August, when the crops being stored, the husband and wife, son and daughter can rest too, while they carry their visitors to the pic nic, dance with them on the green, or show them where the birds nest and wild flowers grow. Truly then the visit will be "company and joy."

Failure of the Telegraph.

The storm last night checked the transmission of press dispatches to the FREEMAN, at a late hour. Our readers, therefore, we trust will bear with us because of the meager telegraphic news displayed in our columns this morning.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Eighty Republicans of Honesdale are out in a call for the formation of a Greeley & Brown Club.

Judging from the fact that the Granites get mad so easily, it is easy to see they are on the losing side.

The Liberal Republican State Committee give notice that a call for a State Convention will soon be made.

Hicks, the well-known drover, says there are about three Greeley Republicans to every Grant Republican in Pine Plains.

The Philadelphia Press absolutely refuses to give up its fight on the Harrisburg Ring, notwithstanding Grant wants him to. Forney is a naughty boy.

Gen. Porter, Grant's mentor, told a Herald reporter that if Greeley was elected the people would be responsible for it. It is the people who mean to elect him.

Organization is the order of the day. Grant's home organ, the Washington Star, says the contest will be so close that success will attend the party having the best organization.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Astor Library is too poor to afford ice-water.

It is said President Thiers was a printer's devil forty years ago.

A band of genuine Arizona Indians are furnishing amusement for the Albanians.

The debt of New York city has increased $17,000,000 within the past six months.

Joe Jefferson, play-goers will be delighted to learn, is rapidly recovering his eyesight.

Mr. Colfax is to have a better position than that he lost at Philadelphia. He will edit the St. Louis Democrat.

A correspondent of the Herald accuses porters of Hudson River Railroad drawing-room cars of selling whiskey.

An ingenious New York tailor has produced a "Charley Varden, cousin to Dolly," costume and is making a big thing out of it.

The Brooklyn caisson of the East River bridge is filled in, and the work under water at the Brooklyn pier is finished.

Robinson, the circus man, has sued the New Haven Railroad for damages in wrecking his menagerie. He still mourns the loss of his anaconda.

Ex-Gov. Randall, of Wisconsin, and Postmaster General under Andrew Johnson, is now lying critically ill at his residence in Elmira, N. Y.

An Idaho woman was ordered by a physician to take three ounces of brandy a day, and knowing that sixteen drachms make an ounce, has patiently been taking forty-eight drinks a day ever since.

It is the practice in California for parties without licenses to marry to have the ceremony performed three miles from shore. But lately these marriages have been declared invalid, and some people feel troubled.

The Editorial Junketing.

The Utica Observer volunteers the following sensible advice to those misguided country editors who have just finished their annual dead-head excursion. This branch of the profession might profit from the suggestions here given:

The so-called Editorial Convention at Watertown is over, and the poor fellows who have been dead-heading on the Watertown people are getting back to their rural homes. These gatherings at Saratoga and Watertown are not to be confounded with the Associated Press meetings, which are business assemblages of the real newspaper men of the State. These latter editors meet without parade or preliminary begging for passes, or preparations for a frolic. They go as business men, on business bent, transact their business, pay their hotel bills, and return home. There follows no silly "editorial correspondence," composed chiefly of puffs of obliging superintendents, gentlemanly conductors, clever hotel proprietors and nimble waiters. The rural journalists gain for themselves neither credit nor benefit from such gatherings as that which has ended.—They might profit considerably from conventions for purely business purposes. They could all become better editors and more successful business men if they would meet annually, not with the notion of a free-lunch frolic filling their heads, but to consult each other in regard to matters pertaining to their profession. They might become acquainted with the best methods of conducting their business. Every editor and publisher could profit by the experience of his fellows. As the conventions are now managed, all good is lost. The editors are at play. Their minds are filled with excursions, receptions, and so forth, and if business hints are heard they are little heeded and soon forgotten. Gentlemen, your free-lunch junketing is not only discreditable to the profession, but a serious business mistake. We pray you to meet next year, if at all, as men of brains and business.

Associated Press Dispatches.

BY TELEGRAPH TO DAILY FREEMAN.

GENEVA TRIBUNAL.

LONDON, July 18.

The British agent at Geneva has presented a demurrer, praying that the tribunal exclude the cases of the Tallahasse, Chicamauga, Sumter, Nashville, Retribution, Boston, Sallie, Jeff. Davis, V. H. Jay, and Music. Pending the decision, each side presented a verbal argument containing the substance of the argumentative portions of the case and counter case, and a summary of the American argument; and a statement in the case of the Florida was presented to-day.

THE JUDGE BARNARD TRIAL.

SARATOGA, July 18.

The Court of Impeachment met at 10 A. M. 34 members were present. The managers and their counsel, and counsel for respondent, were also present. Judge Peckham, and Senators Allen, Madden and Foster, who were absent yesterday, appeared and were sworn. W. A. Beach said "that as the first plea on the part of the respondent would be as to the regularity of the articles of impeachment, his counsel believing they had not been regularly adopted, and that there was no proof of their adoption, and as he, Beach, had but just arrived here, and had had no opportunity to consult and compare views with his associates on this plea, he respectfully asked for an adjournment, even if it were only for a part of a day."

Judge Van Cott, of the counsel associated with the managers, said that as many of the witnesses were absent, an adjournment for a day would convenience the prosecution. The Court thereupon adjourned till to-morrow. Saratoga advices seem to regard the Barnard trial as likely to result disastrously to the accused. The resignation of Barnard's former counsel, Geo. T. Curtis, is said to be due to the fact that he advised his client to resign on the conclusion of the Assembly investigation.

THE INDIANS ON THE WAR PATH.

WASHINGTON, July 18.

A report to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, from the Indian Agent, Forbes, dated St. Paul, Minn., July 10th, says: He apprehends no difficulty or direct opposition from the Indians on our reservations, Lac Traverse and Devils Lake, but is satisfied that the wandering hordes will gather and attempt to prohibit the railroad from crossing Missouri river.

He thinks a large military force should be kept constantly on the lookout. Agents estimates for what would appear to be a large amount of provisions for the use of the agency this year, is with the hope of drawing many of these hostile Indians to a peaceful life on the reservation, where for the first season they must be supplied with food.

THE CUBAN PRIVATEER.

WASHINGTON, July 18.

It appears from information obtained at the Treasury Department and Department of Justice, to-day, that the Cuban vessel Pioneer is still under the control of the Collector of Customs at Newport, he having just been instructed by the Treasury Department to have a large quantity of powder removed from the Pioneer to the public magazine, in accordance with the request of the Mayor of Newport, who apprehended that a possible explosion might inflict much damage on the city.

The Department of Justice has not given any instruction in the premises to the Marshal, who claims that the Pioneer is under libel for the benefit of private parties. The United States Attorney for Rhode Island will however, inquire into all the facts.

The Andes Gradually Sinking.

Travellers who wish to ascend the Andes should lose no time in carrying out their intention, otherwise they will perhaps find no Andes to ascend. These unfortunate mountains seem to be sinking rapidly. A list of the altitudes of some of the most important points determined at distinct intervals of time is given in a recent number of the Ashland, and tells a sad story of diminished proportions. Quito was found by La Condamine, in 1745, to be 9,596 feet above the sea; Humboldt, in 1803, could only make 9,570 feet of it; Boussingault, in 1831, was startled to find it was only 9,567 feet; Orton, in 1867, found it reduced to 9,520 feet, and Reiss and Stuble (doubtless to their honor) found, in 1870, that it had shrunk to the ridiculously small size of only 9,350 feet above the level of the sea. Quito, it seems, has sunk 246 feet in 125 years, and Pichincha 218 feet in the same period. Its crater has sunk 425 feet during the last twenty-six years, and Antisana 165 in sixty-four years. It is, however, a doubtful point whether this continued depression of the Andes is attributable to the sinking of the mountains or the rising of the world.

A ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.—Many years ago the daughter of an English barrister in high practice eloped with her father's coachman, much to the indignation of the offended parent, who vowed that he would never admit the inconsiderate one to the shelter of his roof again, nor allow her even the proverbial shilling. Mr. and Mrs. S—— settled in the Island of Jersey, and convinced that the father would not relent, worked night and day for the maintenance of an ever-increasing family. The husband, it appears, obtained employment as a laborer, earning twelve shillings per week, and the wife kept a small shop. Three weeks since as the ci devant groom was digging in a potato field, the solicitor of his wife's father touched him on the shoulder and informed him of the death of the, till then, inexorable barrister, who, however, had at last relented, and left each of his three daughters one-third of a sum of $170,000, beside other (landed) property.

The fortifications in process of construction by the German engineers at Strasbourg are of the most colossal character. On the side toward France they are making a vast intrenched camp, which will be capable of holding two hundred thousand men. The camp is to be supported by five principal forts, and these are so placed that, until their reduction, it would be impossible again to bombard the city. It is calculated that reinforcements and supplies can always be sent by the Rhine—via Kehl—and thus the project is to make of Strasbourg a sort of inland Sebastopol. Until, therefore, a great military commander, another Napoleon, shall arise to disregard tradition, and march past fortresses, leaving them contemptuously in his rear, France will apparently have to submit to see what was once one of her greatest strongholds, made greater for the benefit of a foe, and to learn to forget her old dream about the frontier of the Rhine.

Col. Hollingworth, who has recently been appointed superintendent of the Mount Vernon estate, is said to have already found opportunities for reducing the expenses of the place. He has dispensed with the services of three lady secretaries, and it is reported has effected a considerable saving by lopping a number of names off the pay-roll that had no reasonable excuse for being there. Col. Hollingworth is a Marylander. He was for a long time collector of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal at the Georgetown office, and has the reputation of being a good business man. His appointment as superintendent of the estate is probably a result of the recent controversy in the newspapers relating to the management of the trust by the Regent of the Mount Vernon Association.

A wonderful escape is reported from Bilston, in South Staffordshire. A miner was shut up in a pit, when there was a tremendous fall of coal, and soon after the pit was quite flooded with water. It was thought that even if the poor fellow had escaped suffocation from the coal, his death by drowning was inevitable. Yet, after many hours' imprisonment, the man was taken out alive and unhurt. He was strong enough, too, to walk home to his wife and children, which he insisted on being allowed to do. To those supposed bereaved ones, his appearance seemed literally that of one who had risen from the dead. Their joy and amazement may be readily conceived, since no case of deliverance, under like circumstances, was ever before known at Bilston.

According to the Elmira Gazette the managers of the famous glen at Watkins are running the institution on the idea of making money, but keeping it in high moral tone. It says: Half a dollar is charged for admission to the glen on week days and Sundays. There is this difference on the Lord's day, however; when one pays his half dollar, and gets up in the glen, he finds the restaurants closed, and no chance of getting a cooling drink of lemonade or a refreshing plate of ice-cream. Instead, the thirsty tourist is handed a tract, which tells him to "Remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy"—fifty cents admission to the glen, but no lemonade sold!

Nearly half a bushel of gloves, forty-two sunshades, a dozen veils, and two score of fans of all shades and patterns, were dropped by their fair owners in the Coliseum, and now await identification at the Boston police headquarters.

THE DAILY FREEMAN.

CITY OF KINGSTON, (RONDOUT.)

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 19, 1872.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

LIBERAL REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The members of the Liberal Republican Committee of the County of Ulster met at the Sherman House on Thursday evening, July 18, 1872, for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization. The following officers were duly chosen:

Chairman—Hon. JAMES G. LINDSLEY. Secretary—JONATHAN W. HASBROUCK.

Executive Committee—S. D. COYKENDALL, Chairman; GEORGE BUG, ROBERT LOUGHRAN, H. L. ABBEY, PETER CANTINE, T. S. DAWES, EDMUND DOREMUS, WM. H. GEDNEY, WM. H. DEGARMO; J. G. LINDSLEY and J. W. HASBROUCK, ex-officio.

Not Right.

In our list of Overlook arrivals yesterday by some error we made Mrs. Wm. Ford, Jr., one of the visitors. It should have been Mr. Wm. Ford, Jr. William isn't quite ready for the extra "s" yet.

Injured by Lightning.

The daughter-in-law of Garrett Dubois was injured by lightning in upper Kingston on Thursday during the thunder storm. She was badly injured, but not killed. We have not heard the full particulars.

Sunstrokes.

John Doudle, aged about twenty-two years, and William Igo, both employed in the quarries of the Newark & Rosendale Cement Company, were prostrated by the heat on Wednesday. Doudle will probably die, but Igo will recover.

Enterprising.

An enterprising dealer in furnishing goods in New York, whose attention had doubtless been attracted by the FREEMAN's item in regard to the Fire Department Representatives going for Greeley, has sent the foreman of Ponckhockie Engine Co. a sample Greeley hat, with price per dozen, soliciting an order for providing the company with head-gear of that style.

A Word to Merchants.

If a word to our merchants of upper Kingston would not be out of place, I wish to call their attention to the early closing of their stores. As merchants, do you think it is right to keep those young men standing behind the counter until 9 o'clock every evening, with the weather as hot as it has been for the last two weeks? Now I dislike to see this part of the city behind the other in public spirit. Where is the merchant on Wall street that has manliness to close at 7½ o'clock (save R. Tootill, merchant tailor,) every evening, Saturday night excepted. He that does receives my trade in the dry-goods line as his reward.

A LADY CUSTOMER.

A Moonlight Sail.

The steamer Pittston on Wednesday evening bore out of the creek as jolly a company of good people, married and single, but all young in years, as ever made mirth and joyousness on board a water craft. A lovely evening it was, too, and as the glorious moon looked down on the happy company the old man therein—mythical—seemed to smile and remember that way back in the chaotic ages he too was young; but poor old soul, we don't believe he ever enjoyed much social intercourse. Goeller's band accompanied the excursionists and poured forth melody as the boat glided over the water, and the strains of music wooed into motion the feet of some of the young people, who made attempts at waltzing, &c., which proved rather abortive, owing to lack of room. But in spite of that everybody was in good humor and enjoyed in various ways the occasion, with its accompaniment of moonlight, delightful scenery, the peaceful appearance of the river and the gentle zephyrs which fanned the bosom of the Hudson and made the change from the stifling heat of the city one most gratifying to the suffering senses. The excursionists sailed up the river as far as Saugerties, being passed near that point by the steamer Metamora, having on board the Laureate Boat Club of Troy, who were returning from an excursion to Poughkeepsie. The usual nautical courtesies were exchanged between the vessels and the strains of the bands on the respective boats mingled in sweet harmony, floating on the night air with delicious effect. The Metamora also displayed fireworks, and the little episode formed quite a pleasant feature of the affair. At 12 o'clock the Pittston landed the "old folks," who wished to reach their homes at that unfashionably early hour, and then the lines were again cast off and the young folks sailed to Eddyville, returning before one o'clock, and dispersed, with songs and laughter, happy over the recollections of a most delightful occasion.

The party feel under many obligations to the captain and crew of the vessel for their kindness and courtesy, which tended materially to increase the pleasure of the occasion, and every one of them are in ecstacies over the delicious ice-cream furnished by Edmonds for the company.

Tows.

The following tows left this port last evening:

Steamers Marshall and Valentine to New York—Schooners Gamage, J. P. Rose, Brunette, Mattie Holmes; Ice-barges Hudson, Colgate, C. B. White, Van Renselaer; boats Ogden, J. R. Brown, Agnes, C. H. Gale (light J. Batchelder (light) E. Kearney, R. Koltz, 6 coal boats; bark S. E. Kingsley.

Steamer I. M. North, to Newburgh—boat A. Graham, and light Pa. coal boats; E. Caulkner to Cold Spring.

Steamer Columbia to Hudson—boats C. C. Pierce, Lawrence; 5 Pa. coal boats.

Steamer Baltic to Albany—barges Westchester, Troy, nineteen; boats C. Warner, 1360, B. F. Bishop; Ice barges Winfield, to Athens: Ice barge Virginia to Coeymans.

The following are the up tows from New York:

Steamer Norwich and Oswego—boats H. Masten, Tanner, Native, Long Branch, Hudson, T. Arpin, Clarion, Buffalo, Ocean, Midland; ice barge Schuyler; brig Annie M. Haight; schooner Lyndon.

Recorder's Court.

Michael Butler, of Ulster County, came to this city yesterday accompanied by a daughter fourteen years old, to settle some rents. While here he got beastly drunk, and while in South street near Dubois, in this condition, he was kindly cared for by Alderman Kernahan, and his horse and wagon were sent to a livery stable. This morning Michael was fined twelve dollars and fifty cents for his disorderly behavior and allowed to depart.—Newburgh Journal.

CITY NOTES.

Dr. Loughran, the Health officer, has completed his inspection of the slaughter houses within the city limits. The proprietors can now by calling on the City Clerk get their permits.

Take comfort, ye baked, stewed, roasted and par-boiled sufferers! We have it on the authority of a sure-pop weather prophet that this slightly torrid weather is to last but six weeks longer—then cool weather. Let us lay aside all superfluous apparel and with quiet, perspiring patience wait for the good time coming.

A walk or drive in the rural districts adjacent to the city is a very delightful experience just now, particularly in the evening under the silvery moonbeams' pleasant light, the senses being regaled with the perfume of new mown hay, and the sounds of the summer night having a pleasing, wooing effect on the mind, which makes the experience a delightful dream.

A Visit to the Poor House.

One of the attaches of the FREEMAN stopped one day this week at the County Poor House, and took dinner with Superintendent Winne and his affable wife. After meal time he visited the poor house property, and found it in good order, notwithstanding the extreme hot weather. William Clark and old friend Sutemister are still there, the former in a demented condition. His is a striking illustration of indulgence in dissipation.

The insane asylum was, as it always is, the last place looked at. It seems humanity puts off disagreeable tasks until the last moment. One Rozana Fox, of Rondout, had just returned from Utica as hopelessly insane. She is from Rondout, and sometimes, in lucid intervals, asks for her friends. There is another lady there whose condition draws out especial sympathy because of her beauty and innocence. Her name is Mary Jane Burger, of Rochester. She too, has been returned as incurable.

Sutemister continues to run the school, with a tender heart. His scholars have been born under such demoralizing influences that it shows itself more or less, but yet he makes progress with them. A little inquiry after their parentage, especially their fathers, brought sad thoughts of the depravity of some men of note, while wondering some newspaper man has not hied thither for a sensation.

Interesting Case.

An action of somewhat novel character was tried last Tuesday, before Justice D. L. Montanye and a jury in Marbletown. The parties were Lydia Wells vs. George W. Carson. The plaintiff is the wife of Hank Wells, and the action is brought by virtue of Sec. 19, Chap. 628, of the laws of 1857, which gives the wife of a husband who is an habitual drinker the right to serve a notice on any dealer of intoxicating liquors, forbidding the sale or the giving of such liquor to her husband, for the space of six months. The plaintiff served such a notice on George W. Carson, the defendant, who runs a hotel at Ghlad Klept, the interpretation of which is slippery place, and claims that within the six months Carson sold or gave her husband liquor. She now sues to recover the $50 penalty allowed by law.

The number of witnesses were inexhaustible. Thirteen were called by the plaintiff, nearly all of whom were young men. These testified that Hank had either "hooked" his liquor, or it had been given to him by them. Three women were called as witnesses, who testified to a lot of tea gossip concerning the private affairs of Hank and the plaintiff, his wife. Among other things they stated that one night Hank came home and threw his wife on the floor, and then beat her with the hind quarter of a dead hog. The husband of plaintiff and Carson both testified that Carson had not given or sold liquor to Hank, the husband. The case was tried in a store at the cross-roads, and the jury were seated on one of the counters. The case lasted until three o'clock Wednesday morning. The room was crowded with people who came from all parts of Marbletown to hear the evidence and listen to the rhetoric of learned counsel. Lapala was out as usual in full force.

Before the evidence had closed, some of the jurymen fell into a sleep that seemed to know no waking; so the constable was called for to poke them up; this worthy knight could not be found, having gone home and to bed.—Another constable who lived two miles from the place of trial was then sent for; the jury were finally aroused with a pint of peanuts that was liberally distributed among them. The counsel then opened on them with their legal battering-rams. It is needless to speak of their eloquence, we all can understand that. The counsel for plaintiff showed a most remarkable gift for story-telling. He told the jury that once upon a time Jupiter had a lottery. At the distribution, the gods presided, and mankind drew a blank. Then there was a great deal of murmuring, so Jupiter had another distribution, when a wise man drew folly. Then there was again much dissatisfaction. As the counsel closed the story he rose to his full height, which by the weird light of the two tallow candles gave him a most terrible look, and shouted like thunder, "that's this case exactly!" The jury were from Skilliput Ghat, and probably not being personally acquainted with Mr. Jupiter, looked at the counsel with blank amazement, and wondered what it was all about. After this remarkable and startling peroration, the case was given to the jury, who returned a verdict for plaintiff, with costs. Prof. Charlouis, of Kingston, was present to interpret the Skilliput dialect. J. Westbrook, Jr., Attorney for plaintiff; A. T. Clearwater, for defendant.

Greeley Meeting.

The Greeley men of Rhinebeck will hold a meeting to-night at 8 o'clock. Judge Crozier and Mr. Willis of New York will speak.

Greeley Club.

A Greeley Club was organized at Rhinebeck on Wednesday night, at which forty-five Republicans signed the constitution. Homer Gray was elected President, A. Wager, John G. Ostrom and John R. Rynders Vice Presidents, and John Bates Secretary.

Steam Fire Engine Excitement.

Mr. Thomas Hodge, of the Hudson River Railroad, seems to be very anxious to show his pretty little Clapp & Jones steamer, and in order to do so he thinks it necessary to challenge No. 4 steamer to play a match for $500. We would respectfully suggest that Mr. Hodge do away with that $500 clause. It is not necessary to play for money. His engine can be fully tested without betting. Let him appoint a time to exhibit her to the people of Poughkeepsie, and many will go to see. And then, on the other hand, let No. 4 steamer be exhibited. There is no need of getting excited over the matter. The weather is too hot. The Clapp & Jones steamer is certainly a smart engine, but don't let us get sun-struck over the fact.—Poughkeepsie Eagle.

Runaway Accident.

Yesterday afternoon a team of horses belonging to a man named Rose, residing in Ulster Co., ran away in North Water street. Mrs. George Ayrault, with her son, a lad, was driving through the street in a phaeton at the same time. She endeavored to get out of the way but did not succeed. A collision took place and the occupants of the phaeton were precipitated from it. Mr. Ayrault was considerably bruised about the face but not seriously hurt. The lad escaped injury. The horse was secured—Po'keepsie News.

VICINITY.

A Hyde Park damsel had so many callers on the 4th, that she had to call in the neighboring beauties to entertain her company.

A Kinderhook farmer wants a prize offered to the man who can show the biggest crop of "bull's eye daisies" in Dutchess county.

Skating parties should keep off the river now a days. The ice is hardly thick enough yet and there are many air holes.—Poughkeepsie Eagle.

Editor Owens, of the Fishkill Journal, is still in California. He writes letters to the Journal from the West, in one of which he gives an interesting description of a call on Brigham Young.

According to the Hudson Register, a stranger makes his appearance in the streets there evenings, and frequently arrests parties, showing them some kind of a fish-house card on the lappel of his coat, which he says is his badge, and boldly informs them "the matter can be settled for a dollar or two." Several Hudsonians have already paid "a dollar or two." Smart chaps, those Hudsonians.

The Goshen-Deckertown or Pine Island Branch of the Erie at Goshen, having an extent of but twelve miles, now carries more milk to market than is sent by the whole Midland road from Bloomingburgh to New York, a distance of over ninety miles. There is daily shipped from the Pine Island Branch from seven hundred to eight hundred and twenty-three cans of milk for the New York market.—Goshen Independent.

183,600 Machines per annum.

Many new machine companies have had their rise and fall—their machines once popular now scarcely known—others have made radical changes in order to exist; while the Howe Machine Company have adhered to the opinion of "Elias Howe, Master of Mechanics" ("The machine is mechanically correct; does not change"), built addition after addition to their factory, and to-day cannot supply the demand, although turning out six hundred machines a day—just a machine a minute.

ELIAS HOWE, JR. { Fabricante de Machines a coudre exposant. Manufacturer of Sewing Machines, Exhibitor.

The Howe Sewing Machines

Are celebrated and known for doing the best work, using a straight and much smaller needle for the same thread than any other machine. They are adapted to any and all kinds of family sewing and manufacturing of every description, from fine lace to patent leather, making a beautiful and perfect Lock Stich, alike on both sides of the article sewed, and will neither rip nor ravel, and uses less thread.

Every machine is as near perfection as the best machinery in the world can make it. It is the oldest machine and has more improvements, and is nearer perfection than any other machine, the parts being exactly alike. If any of the parts need to be replaced, the operator can replace it, and it will outlast and outwear any machine made. They are remarkably simple and easily learned, sure in their operation, and almost impossible to break or get them out of order. They use any thread directly from the spool. The needle has a perpendicular motion, (absolutely necessary for heavy work,) runs easily, a fast sewer, and almost noiseless. They do not soil the dress of the operator, and do not have to be taken apart to oil and clean. The New Improved Family Machine cannot be surpassed and is without equal, and we CHALLENGE THE WORLD to produce a better machine on points of merit. A Hemmer, Feller, Gatherer, Braider, Quilter, Tucking Guide, and all the other necessary Tools go with each machine, free of charge.

☞ Beware of spurious and bogus Howe's. The undersigned is the only authorized Agent for the Genuine Howe Machine.

1y5 90 NORTH FRONT STREET, Kingston, N. Y.

CORNS are as useless to the community as mischief-making old maids, corner loafers in large cities, or dishonest politicians, no more of a luxury than epsom salts or castor oil, and no more desirable for comfort than a hedge hog is for a parlor ornament. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies, Alleviator and Curative, eradicates corns, banishes bunions, and cures ingrowing nails, sore instep, and other obnoxious torments of feet.—Sold by Van Deusen Brothers, R. Deyo and others.

LISTEN. What do you hear? A cough?—What does it indicate? Perhaps a tickle in the throat; perhaps bronchitis; it may be a recent cold; it may be an effort of nature to clear the bronchia; it may be the deep hollow cough, boon companion of that terrible monster consumption.—In either case the free use of Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer, as directed, will banish all kinds of Cough, cure Bronchitis certain, and all the early symptoms of Consumption. Sold by Van Deusen Brothers, R. Deyo and others.

$1000 Reward for an incurable case of Catarrh. After having suffered, deluged, gargled, hawked, spit and gagged to your entire satisfaction in useless endeavors to get relief from Catarrh, use Briggs' Allevantor, according to directions. The filthy mass of mucous will be immediately expelled, the inflamed surface soothed, the eyes sparkle with delight, the head feels natural again; hope revives, for a cure is sure to follow the use of this agreeable, scientific and reliable remedy. Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

CORNS Let them ache, cut your boots, curse them and make up your mind that you can endure their torments as long as they can torment you, but take the advice of an old chap who has tried it, but got worsted by the corns. They are worse than a coon in a barrel; never surrender, but fight it out on that line summer and winter. Corns, bunions, ingrowing nails and other such pleasant little pets, are gathered into the relief kitchen, by using Briggs' corn and bunion remedies, Alevintor and Curative. Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

PILES It is a simple word, but carries terror to the hearts of those who have dragged out a miserable existence for days, weeks, months or years, and who can describe their sufferings only by saying, "Life has no pleasure for me; if I were only out of my misery, what a blessing it would be." Let such sufferers cheer up, the messenger of peace is on the wing. Briggs' Pile Remedies have come—try them. They are to those afflicted with internal, bleeding, external and itching piles, indeed a blessing. Sold by Van Deusen Bros., R. Deyo and others.

CORNS, Bunions, Toe Nails, Tender Feet, &c., also Piles, Cancerous and Scrofulous Humors, Skin Diseases, &c., skillfully and successfully treated by DR. J. BRIGGS & CO., at the Great Central Healing and Chiropodical Institute, No. 697 Broadway, N. Y. Open day and evening. 1yd225 1yw689.

JOHN G. WOLVEN,

OF THE

CITY LIVERY, SALE AND EXCHANGE STABLES,

To supply the great demand of his customers, has purchased of Brewster & Co., of Broome street, New York, a very fine LANDAU CARRIAGE of elegant design, IMPORTED FROM BERLIN, Prussia, at the cost of $3,000. It can be easily changed in three different ways to suit customers—closed, half-top or all open. He has also new buggies, two-seated park phaetons, first class horses, four in-hand-turn-outs, and careful drivers, to be let on reasonable terms.

Having purchased nearly an entire new stock, he will sell his entire former stock, consisting of carriages, buggies, harness, three-seated wagons, half-tops, rockaways &c., many of which are nearly new, at a great sacrifice. Summer boarding-house keepers and others who desire to procure good carriages and wagons at low prices, will do well to give him a call. No better bargains can be offered in the City of Kingston.
